BEREAVED FAMILY SUPPORT

Over 1,500 health and social care workers have lost their lives to COVID-19, many of whom were parents of young children.

Children rely on their parents to navigate through life. Those who have lost a parent, or both parents in some situations, will miss out hugely on this support. Many of these children will face additional challenges and barriers as they grow up. We offer free and tailored support to each family, to ensure that they and their children are cared for.

If we can help your own family, or another that you know of, please contact us to find out more
